

Dominic secondary distribution box processing price

AI Overview

The price of a Dominic Secondary Distribution Box varies widely depending on specifications, capacity, and supplier, typically ranging from $150 to $800 or more per unit.

Pricing Overview The cost of a distribution box like the Dominic Secondary Distribution Box depends on several factors including voltage rating, amperage capacity, number of circuits, material construction, and integrated safety features. Standard residential or small commercial units generally start around $150–$300, while larger industrial or high-capacity units with advanced features such as modular design, weatherproofing, or smart monitoring can exceed $500–$800 per unit.

Factors Affecting Price

- Material and Build Quality: Boxes made from corrosion-resistant metals or high-grade plastics are more expensive but offer longer service life.
- Capacity and Configuration: More circuits, higher amperage, or three-phase systems increase cost.
- Customization: OEM branding, modular busbar fitment, or specialized mounting options can raise the price.
- Installation and Compliance: Outdoor-rated or IP-certified enclosures for industrial use may carry a premium due to compliance with safety standards.
- Supplier Options Dominic distribution boxes are available through manufacturers and distributors, including European and Chinese suppliers. Platforms like Europages list multiple manufacturers offering custom and standard units, where pricing can be obtained by requesting a quote directly.

Wholesale orders often reduce per-unit costs, especially for bulk purchases.

Recommendation For an accurate price, it is best to contact authorized distributors or manufacturers with your required specifications, including voltage, amperage, number of circuits, and environmental rating. This ensures the quote reflects both the product features and any shipping or installation considerations.
