

Imported Cable Tray Production Equipment

AI Overview

Imported cable tray production lines are fully automated systems designed for high-precision forming, punching, cutting, and assembly of various cable tray types, offering efficiency, flexibility, and consistent quality.

Overview of Cable Tray Production Lines

Imported cable tray production lines are engineered to manufacture ladder, perforated, solid-bottom, and channel trays from metal coils or sheets, typically galvanized steel, stainless steel, or aluminum with thicknesses ranging from 0.6 mm to 3.0 mm. These lines integrate multiple operations into a single workflow, including decoiling, leveling, feeding, roll forming, punching, cutting, and collection, ensuring minimal manual handling and high throughput.

Key Components

- Decoiler and Leveling Units: Automatic hydraulic or cantilever decoilers support metal coils up to 5 tons, while leveling machines with multiple rollers ensure flat, defect-free strips for precise forming.
- Servo Feeding Systems: Imported servo motors and digital control systems provide accurate feeding with tolerances as tight as ± 0.15 mm, adaptable to various tray widths and thicknesses.
- Roll Forming Machines: Multi-stand roll forming units progressively shape metal strips into U-channel, C-channel, or ladder profiles. Width and height adjustments allow production of trays from 50 mm to 1200 mm wide with flange heights of 25–100 mm.
- Punching Units: Hydraulic or servo-controlled punch presses create knockouts, ventilation slots, and mounting holes. Customizable molds enable precise hole placement for assembly and cable management.
- Cutting Devices: Flying shears or fixed-length shears cut trays to required lengths, often integrated immediately after roll forming for continuous production.
- PLC Control Systems: Centralized control panels allow operators to set batch sizes, tray lengths, and production speed, reducing errors and ensuring consistency.
