

Indonesia Blockchain

AI Overview

Indonesia is rapidly emerging as a global blockchain hub, driven by strong adoption, regulatory evolution, and strategic national initiatives. Regulatory Landscape Indonesia's blockchain and crypto sector is regulated under Law No. 4 of 2023 (PPSK Law), which shifted oversight of crypto-assets from the Commodity Futures Trading Regulatory Agency (Bappebti) to the Financial Services Authority (OJK) as of January 2025, integrating digital assets more closely into the financial system while enhancing consumer protection and market integrity. Crypto-assets remain classified as commodities rather than financial instruments, affecting taxation and compliance. OJK Regulation No. 27 of 2024 governs digital financial asset trading, including licensing, compliance, and innovation in blockchain-based financial products. Market Adoption and Growth Indonesia ranks third globally in crypto adoption, with over 22 million registered crypto investors and a transaction volume exceeding IDR 556 trillion (USD 34.25 billion) in 2024, reflecting a 356% year-on-year increase. Popular assets include Tether (USDT), Bitcoin (BTC), and Dogecoin (DOGE). Blockchain applications extend beyond finance into supply chain transparency, government services, and real-world asset tokenization, such as property and gold-backed digital Rupiah projects. Strategic Initiatives The government is advancing Project Garuda, a multi-phase initiative to develop the Digital Rupiah, Indonesia's central bank digital currency (CBDC), leveraging blockchain and distributed ledger technology for secure, efficient, and interoperable payments. The project includes retail and wholesale digital Rupiah, designed to coexist with existing payment systems while enhancing transaction speed and accessibility. Industry Organizations and Events The Asosiasi Blockchain Indonesia (A-B-I) is a key non-profit organization mobilizing blockchain actors, advocating for supportive regulations, and promoting ethical standards for responsible blockchain development. Indonesia also hosts Ind...
